

Presidential Speech Writing Activity

Having taken the presidential oath of office, the new president of the United States addresses the people by making a speech. People all over the world watch this historic moment. The speech is a way of outlining the president's vision for the future of their country.

Your Task

Imagine you are the new president and you are making a speech on your inauguration day. What would you say to reassure people that you will be a good president?

Write your speech below

My fellow citizens,
